Chronicle of monetary events in 2015

January

On 15 January 2015, the SNB discontinues the minimum exchange rate of CHF 1.20 per euro. At the same time, it lowers the target range for the three-month Libor by 0.5 percentage points to between -1.25% and -0.25% , and adjusts the interest rate on sight deposits held by banks and other financial market participants at the SNB to -0.75% as of 22 January 2015. The aim of this marked interest rate reduction is to cushion the effects of the discontinuation of the minimum exchange rate and reduce the attractiveness of Swiss franc investments. The SNB also announces that it will continue to take account of the exchange rate situation in formulating its monetary policy in future, and will intervene in the foreign exchange market as necessary (pp. 37–47).

On 21 January, the SNB and the People's Bank of China sign a memorandum of understanding on the establishment of renminbi clearing arrangements in Switzerland (p. 112).

March

On 6 March, the SNB reports a profit of CHF 38.3 billion for the 2014 financial year. The distributable profit allows payment of a shareholder dividend as well as the ordinary profit distribution of CHF 1 billion to the Confederation and the cantons. After the profit appropriation, the distribution reserve stands at CHF 28.5 billion, which is above the CHF 10 billion threshold. In accordance with the profit distribution agreement concluded with the Federal Department of Finance (FDF), the profit distribution for 2014 can therefore be increased. On 30 January, the SNB and the FDF already agreed to a supplementary distribution of CHF 1 billion, so that the total distribution to the Confederation and the cantons for the 2014 financial year amounts to CHF 2 billion. The remaining profit is allocated to the distribution reserve (cf. Annual Report 2014, pp. 140–145).

At its quarterly assessment of 19 March, the SNB leaves the target range for the three-month Libor unchanged at between -1.25% and -0.25% . The interest rate on sight deposits with the SNB remains unchanged at -0.75% . In formulating its monetary policy, the SNB continues to take account of the exchange rate situation and its impact on inflation and economic developments. It therefore reaffirms its willingness to intervene in the foreign exchange market as necessary in order to influence monetary conditions (pp. 37–47).

On 22 April, the SNB announces that it is considerably reducing the group of sight deposit account holders that are exempt from negative interest. The negative interest rate will in future also apply to the sight deposit accounts held at the SNB by enterprises associated with the Confederation, including the PUBLICA pension fund. The account of the SNB pension fund will also be subject to negative interest. In addition, the sight deposit accounts of the cantons of Geneva and Zurich, as well as that of the City of Zurich, are wound up. In future, the only sight deposit accounts to be exempt from negative interest will be those of the central Federal Administration and the compensation funds for old age and survivors' insurance (AHV/AVS), disability insurance (IV/AI) and the fund for loss of earned income (EO/APG) (p. 57).

April

At its quarterly assessment of 18 June, the SNB leaves the target range for the three-month Libor unchanged at between -1.25% and -0.25% . The interest rate on sight deposits at the SNB remains at -0.75% . In formulating its monetary policy, the SNB takes account of the exchange rate situation and its impact on inflation and economic developments. It therefore reaffirms its willingness to intervene in the foreign exchange market as necessary in order to influence monetary conditions (pp. 37–47).

June

On 14 August, the SNB announces that it will begin issuing new Swiss banknotes in April 2016 and that the first denomination to be released will be the 50-franc note. The issuing of the entire series is scheduled to be completed by 2019 (p. 65).

August

On 20 August, the SNB launches the consultation phase for the revision of the National Bank Ordinance (NBO) and invites all interested parties to comment on the draft by 2 October at the latest. The revision primarily concerns the implementing provisions relating to the oversight of systemically important financial market infrastructures. It aligns these implementing provisions with new and/or modified legislation under the new Financial Market Infrastructure Act (FMIA) and the Financial Market Infrastructure Ordinance (FMIO) as well as the resulting changes in the National Bank Act, which all come into force on 1 January 2016 (pp. 94–96).

On 1 September, the SNB announces that it issued a decree on 29 June designating PostFinance Ltd a systemically important financial group in accordance with the Banking Act (p. 91).

September

At its quarterly assessment of 17 September, the SNB leaves the target range for the three-month Libor unchanged at between -1.25% and -0.25% . The interest rate on sight deposits at the SNB remains at -0.75% . The SNB reaffirms its willingness to intervene in the foreign exchange market as necessary in order to take account of the impact of the exchange rate situation on inflation and economic developments (pp. 37–47).

October

On 21 October, the SNB welcomes the Federal Council's decision to adjust the 'too big to fail' regulations. The measures taken represent a crucial step in the overall process of solving the 'too big to fail' issue in Switzerland. The SNB, which was represented in the relevant Federal Department of Finance working group, supports both the measures and their implementation within the period foreseen (pp. 92–93).

November

On 10 November, the SNB reports that the People's Bank of China has authorised direct trading between renminbi and Swiss francs on the China Foreign Exchange Trade System (CFETS) with effect from 9 November (p. 112).

On 26 November, the SNB announces that it will put the revised NBO into force on 1 January 2016. This revision aligns the implementing provisions relating to the oversight of systemically important financial market infrastructures with new and/or modified legislation (p. 94).

On 30 November, the SNB announces that the People's Bank of China has authorised the Swiss branch of the China Construction Bank to be the renminbi clearing bank in Switzerland (p. 112).

December

At its quarterly assessment of 10 December, the SNB leaves the target range for the three-month Libor unchanged at between -1.25% and -0.25% . The interest rate on sight deposits remains at -0.75% . The negative interest rate and the SNB's willingness to intervene in the foreign exchange market serve to ease pressure on the Swiss franc. The SNB's monetary policy thus helps to stabilise price developments and support economic activity (pp. 37–47).
