At CHF 20.1 billion, the total annual profit recorded by banks in Switzerland in 2006 was CHF 4.7 billion below the 2005 figure, an 18.8% drop. Apart from the big banks, however, all the other bank categories reported an increase in annual profits. Together they attained an annual profit of CHF 9.2 billion (+18.5%). The big banks, by contrast, recorded a decline in annual profits of some CHF 6 billion to CHF 10.9 billion (down 35.8%). In addition to a decline in net income from ordinary banking operations (CHF 1.5 billion down), this drop was due to a substantially lower level of extraordinary income as compared to 2005 (a CHF 4.2 billion reduction); in 2005, however, this latter item had been exceptionally high.

The aggregate balance sheet total was up 12.2% to CHF 3,194.2 billion. This was mainly due to the business which the banks conducted with customers abroad. The value of securities held in custody accounts rose from CHF 4,412.7 billion to CHF 5,017.4 billion (+13.7%). This growth was attributable to the inflow of new funds as well as higher share prices.

The number of jobs in banks rose by 7.1% to 127,921 (in terms of full-time equivalents). Whereas new jobs had mainly been created outside Switzerland in previous years, the domestic market also benefited from the expansion in the workforce last year.

Profit and loss account

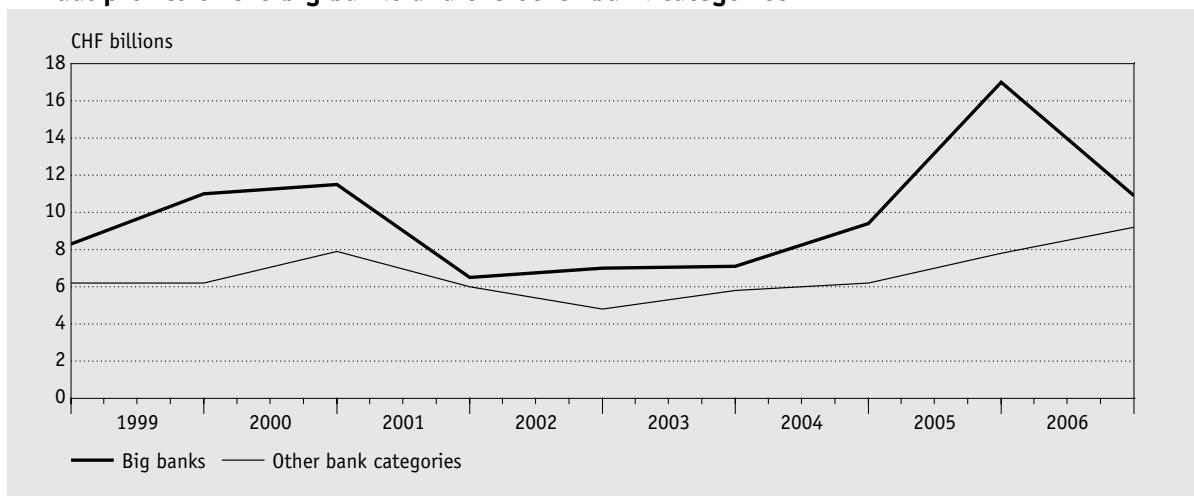

Of the 331 banks covered, 321 reported a profit for 2006 (314 in 2005) and 10 a loss (23). The total annual profit of all the banks fell by 18.8% to CHF 20.1 billion (CHF 4.7 billion below the 2005 figure). The total annual loss also declined, reaching CHF 47.4 million.

Annual profits at the big banks contracted by 35.8% from CHF 17.0 billion to CHF 10.9 billion. A lower level of extraordinary income as compared to the previous year (CHF 4.2 billion down) made a substantial contribution to this decline. However, this figure had been very high in 2005.² In addition, big banks' net income from ordinary banking operations fell by CHF 1.5 billion to CHF 15.1 billion. The fall in gross profits is attributable to declining interest income (-13.6%) and lower income from participation interests (-40.9%), as well as increased personnel expenses (+17.7%).

All the other bank categories reported an increase in annual profits. Together they attained annual profits of CHF 9.2 billion (+18.5%). The graph below shows the annual profits of big banks and the other bank categories since 1998. The unusual dimensions of the big banks' results in 2005 stand out clearly.

² In 2005, about half of the figure for extraordinary income was derived from sales of institutions by one of the big banks.

Annual profits of the big banks and the other bank categories

Net income from commission business and services, as well as from dealing increased for almost all bank categories. Overall, these activities made a significant contribution to income from ordinary banking operations. Overall, personnel expenses rose by 14.1% to about CHF 30 billion. All bank categories reported higher personnel expenses than in 2005. Personnel expenses increased considerably faster than the number of jobs, which rose by 7.1%.

Balance sheet business

In 2006, the aggregate balance sheet total for all banks in Switzerland rose by 12.2% to CHF 3,194.2 billion. As in previous years, foreign assets (+16.7%) and foreign liabilities (+17.7%) recorded stronger growth than domestic assets (+3.9%) and domestic liabilities (+4.5%).

Domestic mortgage claims increased by 4.0% to CHF 643.3 billion (+5.3% in 2005). Fixed-interest mortgages took a slightly smaller share of the domestic market, at 74.4%, as compared to 74.9% in 2005. Other claims against customers were up by CHF 167.1 billion to CHF 630.9 billion (+36.0%). This increase is basically attributable to business with customers abroad (+46.4%). Claims against domestic customers rose for the first time since 2000, increasing 9.4% to CHF 142.7 billion.

The value of banks' securities trading portfolios attained CHF 488.2 billion, thereby exceeding the 2005 level by 15.7%. Banks expanded their bond portfolios, in particular. Financial investments, however, dropped by 4.9% to CHF 93.4 billion (+12.4% in 2005).

Liabilities towards customers in the form of savings and deposits fell back by 4.0% to CHF 357.9 billion (CHF 15.1 billion down). Other liabilities towards customers, by contrast, were up by 21.3% to CHF 1,016.4 billion (up CHF +178.4 billion). Time deposits grew by 29.8%, which was substantially faster than sight deposits (+5.1%). The shift from savings to time deposits is likely to be attributable to growing interest differentials. For the first time since 2001, liabilities arising from medium-term bank-issued notes also increased, attaining CHF 34.5 billion (+18.0%).

Securities held in custody accounts

The value of securities held in custody accounts³ rose from CHF 4,412.7 billion to CHF 5,017.4 billion (+13.7%). This growth was attributable to the inflow of new funds as well as higher share prices.

Securities held by resident custody account holders increased by 14.9%, while those held by non-resident account holders were up by 12.9%. Looking at the different categories of securities, the above-average growth in both investments in structured products (+37.5%) and investment fund units (+19.4%) was striking. Higher money market rates made investments in money market paper more attractive and this category expanded by 14.1% to a total CHF 78.5 billion. Holdings of shares, which remained the most important category of securities, were up by 16.4% to CHF 1,965.0 billion. This increase was largely attributable to higher share prices.

Fiduciary business

Fiduciary funds managed by banks increased by 15.3% to CHF 434.0 billion. Since these funds are chiefly invested in the money market, the higher short-term interest rates in the Swiss franc, euro and US dollar markets boosted the flow of fiduciary funds. There was a correspondingly strong rise in deposits in these three currencies (CHF +33.4%, EUR +18.2%, USD +11.8%). The appreciation in the euro also contributed to the increase in fiduciary deposits in euros. Despite the depreciation in the US dollar, it retained its position as leading investment currency, with a share of 50.9%.

Fiduciary deposits from abroad rose by a total of 14.0%, with deposits from the EU area up by 16.2% and those from North America rising by 31.3%. A decline in deposits was registered by Latin America in particular (-6.0%). Domestic deposits recorded a strong increase (+21.9%), and were invested almost exclusively abroad, as was also the case for the other fiduciary deposits.

Employment

In terms of full-time equivalents, staff numbers were up by 8,457 to 127,921 (+7.1%). Whereas new jobs had mainly been created outside Switzerland in previous years, the domestic market also benefited from the expansion in the workforce last year. Of the 8,457 new positions in 2006, 3,681 were in Switzerland and 4,777 were outside the country. The number of vacancies filled with woman candidates rose by 4,106 (+9.1%), while those taken by men were up by 4,352 (+5.8%).

³ Securities holdings are recorded at the level of the 'bank office' reporting entity. This reporting entity includes offices in Switzerland but excludes branches abroad. Data collection also covers securities holdings in Swiss National Bank custody accounts managed on behalf of the Federal Finance Administration and other federal offices.
