SNB Chairman Thomas Jordan in good condition following preventive medical procedure

The Chairman of the Governing Board of the Swiss National Bank, Thomas Jordan, had to undergo a medical procedure at the weekend, which proved necessary following a preventive check-up. The operation was successful and Thomas Jordan is in a good condition. He will be able to devote himself fully to SNB official business again after the medically recommended period of convalescence.

Until then, Vice Chairman Fritz Zurbrügg, Governing Board member Andréa Maechler and the deputy members of the Governing Board will attend to the upcoming business appointments in Thomas Jordan's place.
